THE Company of Military Historians is an educational, scientific, and literary institution devoted to the study and dissemination of “information on the material culture, history, and traditions of members of the Armed Forces of the United States worldwide and other nations serving in the Western Hemisphere.”

The membership includes both professionals and amateurs in the field of American military history. On the rolls are not only historians, artists, writers, curators, librarians, teachers, and researchers, but people from virtually every walk of life. Among the members are serious collectors of all sorts of militaria: uniforms, accouterments, weapons, equipage, military miniatures, and ephemera, to name just a few.

Membership is open to adults of eighteen years and over who have demonstrated a keen interest in some phase of military history. There are no requirements concerning sex, race, color, nationality, ethnic background, or political affiliation. The main qualification is a strong desire to share one’s knowledge and expertise.

Members receive, free of charge and financed by dues, a quarterly publication, Military Collector & Historian (familiarily, the Company Journal). The Journal is professional in content and is profusely illustrated. Its richly annotated articles cover such subjects as weapons, accouterments, uniforms, matériel, and colors and standards.

The Company also publishes and distributes a series of military prints, Military Uniforms in America, to those who wish to subscribe. A year’s subscription consists of twelve plates, each 11 x 14 inches in size. These full-color prints, by different member artists, illustrate military dress relating to the American scene.

A check for the first year's dues ($55.00; $60.00 outside U.S.) and, if applicable, subscription to the MUIA plates must accompany this application.

For student memberships, proof of enrollment as a full time student should be submitted along with the first year's dues ($15.00). Minors (ages 14–17) should send a letter from the parent or guardian guaranteeing the payment of dues ($15.00).

Dues are billed on a calendar year basis. New members will receive all four issues of Military Collector & Historian and, if subscribed to, all MUIA plates published for the calendar year in which they join. Dues for the following year and those subsequent, regardless of the date the applicant becomes a member, are billed in October.
