

Company of Military Historians Press Release

April 20, 2013

At the Company of Military Historians Annual Meeting at Baltimore, MD on April 20, 2013 Bruce Bazelon of Harrisburg, PA was honored with the Distinguished Service Award.

The Distinguished Service Award is the Company of Military Historian's second highest honor, and recognizes those who have continued to provide exceptional service to the Company after being named a Fellow. The award is being presented based on Mr. Bazelon's long and devoted service to The Company of Military Historians including:

- For his service to the Company since the 1970s in a variety of positions, especially in regard to the preservation and management of the CMH uniform collection;
- For the 13 articles he has contributed to the Company Journal;
- For actively supporting the Company in numerous annual meetings;
- During its existence, for his active support and involvement with the Central Pennsylvania Chapter of the Company serving as an officer and organizing many of the programs;
- And for bringing positive recognition to the Company in his capacity both as a public speaker on subjects related to military history, and as a published author.

Having been a member of The Company since 1968 and a Fellow since 1977, his many and varied activities reflect great credit upon himself and the Company of Military Historians.

Be it therefore known that the governors of The Company of Military Historians, acting in the name of The Company, do hereby present to Bruce Bazelon, The Distinguished Service Award of The Company of Military Historians at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania this 20th day of April 2013.
